

Twenty-four hours

Till Till

1. Twenty-four hours is plenty of time for power
2. My youngest sister who loves to fight
3. Allow her? my sister, the one my mum loves as if she was a flower
4. Sisters, we fight all day all night
5. Without a right
6. What she had stolen, she hadn't known was a crime
7. Despite my birthday being the first day she opened her eyes to the light
8. Cold, my heart would fill with rage every time
9. That hate I had, decided my every fate
10. As I pray and pray for this fight to have a meaning
11. Whether she loved me or would leave me she did not debate
12. Likes slaves we are controlled by our feelings
13. But deep down she is my joy and my clown
14. This renowned love and hate, I love it as if it were my crown

Planning and Ideas

In this unit, we have studied sonnets. To create my own sonnet I first chose the theme of love instead of nature. In the beginning, I didn't have any idea what to write about so I thought about writing about nature. I decided to write my sonnet of google doc and change it as I thought of better ideas. I then decided to write about a girl who is perfect in every way and how I wanted to be that girl but I had a change of mind and decided to write about the conflict between me and my youngest sister who has the same birthday as me, and how we would fight more often than with our other siblings but and the same time how we understand each other better than with other siblings and love each other.

Working On The Sonnet

At first, I had some trouble trying to find words that rhymed and would tell the story. I would say it took me some amount of time before I was finally happy with my sonnet. In my opinion, I would say line 10 was the most difficult to write because it was hard to find a good rhyming word that would also make sense in the sentence. I wanted there to have a dramatic volta, even though most people would already know what the volta would be in this particular type of sonnet. The sonnet was also written to look similar to a heart monitor to represent love and life. I think that the sonnet was good but if I had more time I would like to try making each line 10 syllables.

Reflection and Conclusion

The sonnet had been written to show how even the most complicated of sibling relationships has a hidden love deep down. The sonnet portrays feelings such as jealousy, anger, content, and warmth. The meaning behind the name of the sonnet is that my sister and I are mostly together twenty-four-seven and during that time a lot happens one minute we might be loving and helping each other and the next we would be fighting fiercely. The sonnet starts by talking about how and why my sister and I fight, it also talks about how we have our differences and how she gets treated differently which can be seen in line 3 where I chose to use the word flower because flowers are usually used to represent something special. The sonnet ends by saying how even though all of this I love my sister and that she always makes me happy and laugh. The sonnet can also be an example of relationships between other people and their siblings and can help people know that even though they fight they will always be there for each other.
